Clinical Testing

EKG (Electrocardiogram)

An EKG is a noninvasive test that is used to reflect underlying heart conditions by measuring the electrical activity of the heart.

Echocardiogram Ultrasound

The echocardiogram identifies the size and shape of the heart (internal chamber size quantification), pumping capacity, and the location and extent of any tissue damage.

Carotid Duplex Ultrasound

This diagnostic exam identifies blood flow through the carotid arteries and checks for blockages or narrowing which can indicate an increased risk of stroke.

Abdominal Aorta Ultrasound

The aorta is the main artery from your heart that carries blood throughout your body. This ultrasound evaluates the size of the aorta to look for aneurysms (enlargement).

Lower & Upper Arterial Duplex Ultrasound

This diagnostic exam creates a color map of the arteries in your arm(s) and leg(s) to identify narrowing of vessels that may be causing leg pain or other clinical issues.

Thyroid Ultrasound

The thyroid ultrasound uses soundwaves to produce pictures of the thyroid gland in the neck. This test can detect the presence of a thyroid cyst, nodule(s) or tumor(s).
